

JUNE D BARNARD SCHOLARSHIP

Creativity and curiosity often grow in challenging times full of ambiguity and uncertainty. With the northwest side of Chicago as her backyard, June was born to a struggling 16-year-old mother and was eventually separated from her brother and mother until she was nine.

June depended on her imagination and creativity to keep her sense of wonder alive as she created stories in her head and waited for her family to be reunited. She had been to four different grade schools when Raymond Duberville entered this little girl's story and created a family full of love and support. The uncertainty she once experienced now had a permanent address and a classroom she would graduate from.

When you ask June why she started the Curiosity 2 CREATE Scholarship Fund, she states, "Every day I awake is a blessing, and it has a purpose. My purpose is to bring hope, courage, strength, and self-confidence to our teachers as they infuse curiosity, creativity, and critical problem-solving into the lives of their students. Igniting their curiosity and creativity by discovering the incredible opportunities that can be theirs regardless of their situation in life. Curiosity and creativity are keys to building confidence, a healthy mind, and hope for a brighter future".

One thing is certain: June Barnard embodies creativity and curiosity, and her passion for it is contagious. That's why June founded Curiosity 2 CREATE and why this scholarship is named in her honor. Until this day, she is reading, learning, and creating.
